SPEAKER SUMMARY

Ann Roecker inspires teens, young adults, and parents/teachers to become everyday reformers in our reformation-resistant world through apologetics fiction. She draws from themes in her groundbreaking, award-winning apologetics fiction, The Revelation of Emery Audubon, a story about a college student who uses insights from Revelation to spark reformation at her corrupt university.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

In this lively workshop apologetics fiction author Ann Roecker introduces teens, young adults, and parents/teachers to apologetics fiction as a creative outlet, educational offering, and a tool for innovative evangelism and discipleship. Ann shares:

- What reformation is,
- What apologetics fiction is,
- Why this genre matters for today's youth,
- Qualities of a reformer in a reformation-resistant world,
- How apologetics fiction is an innovative way to share our faith and disciple the nation, and
- How to write apologetics fiction in a way that impacts the world for Christ.
